

FRIENDSGIVING.

Every day in 2014, 42,500 new people were forced to flee their homes because of war, conflict and persecution.

If you had to flee your home, what one item would you take?

FRIENDSGIVING.

There are 60 million refugees worldwide.

Can you name three countries with refugee populations of 1+ million people?

FRIENDSGIVING.

Many refugees are a lot like us. Some left behind promising careers and half-completed college degrees.

What question would you want to ask a refugee your age?

FRIENDSGIVING.

The refugee crisis is not going away. It is a new geopolitical reality we'll be confronting for years to come.

Do you think the refugee crisis is solvable?

FRIENDSGIVING.

Refugees must leave their homes with almost nothing and rebuild their whole lives in a new country.

What does resilience mean to you?

FRIENDSGIVING.

Where we are born determines a lot about our lives.

What are you thankful for about living in the U.S.?

FRIENDSGIVING.

More than half of all refugees worldwide came from just three countries: the Syrian Arab Republic (3.88 million), Afghanistan (2.59 million), and Somalia (1.11 million).

Where would you go if you had to leave home?
